

ABSTRACT

A method and system for mapping quality of service requirements between various types of wireless communication systems is disclosed. The mapping is performed according to the type of systems across which the mapping is being provided.